PRICE TWO CENTS

JACKSON COUNTY WON FIRST PLACE

Miss Hattie Rucker, of Tampico, Outspells Twenty-three Contestants in Fourth District "Bee."

WINNERS GOTO STATE CONTEST

Miss Lenora Shuck, of Jennings County, Takes Second and Frank Prichard, of Johnson, Third.

Jackson county holds the honor of having the best speller in the common schools of the fourth district, Miss Hattie Rucker, age 15, of Tampico, having won first place in the spelling "bee" held here Saturday afternoon. Miss Lenora Shuck, age 12, of Butteville, Jennings county, won second place, and Frank Prichard, age 13, of Nineveh, Johnson county, took third honors. These three pupils will represent the fourth district in the state contest which will be held at Indianapolis next month. Miss Jennie McNeice, age 13, of Brownstown township, was the winner of the fourth place, and Miss Shirley Giddings, age 16, of Ripley county, captured the fifth place. Under the rules of the contests the latter two are alternates to the state "bee", and will take the places of any of the regular contestants, if for any reason they should not be able to attend.

The people who believe that spelling has been neglected in the schools should have been present at the contest Saturday when they could have had good proof that, at least, the contestants, had given the subject much attention. There were a large number of spectators present at the contest, many of whom had taken part in such contests years ago, and they were astonished at the manner in which the young people spelled the various words. Occasionally some early resident would exclaim, "That is nearly as good as they did when I went to school," and would then proceed to tell the story of how he had remained on the floor until the pronouncer was exhausted, and honors would finally be conferred without completing the contest for there were no more words in the English vocabulary that he had not spelled correctly.

The first part of the contest was an oral test. After one half of the contestants had been retired a written test was given, and those who made the highest grades continued in the second part of the oral contest. Words were then pronounced until the contest was closed. The words which were misspelled in the oral contest were universities, transient, accommodate, canneries, unparalleled, lucrative, controlled, surely, Schiller, inaccessible, Caesar, cemetery, sense affiliation, courtly and European. The contestants to whom the last word was spelled it correctly, but failed to realize that the first letter was capitalized, according to the rule that all proper names must be indicated by the capital letter. In the written contest the following words were misspelled: vaccinate, iniquitous, analysis, parallel and censure. In the written test several of the contestants failed on the same word.

The county superintendents, under whose direction the spelling match was conducted, were well pleased with the result of the contest. They say that the "bees" will create a greater interest in school work, and that they will be very beneficial to the pupils, even though they are not among the contestants.

The friends of Miss Rucker, the winner, say that she is well qualified and prepared and has an excellent chance to win one of the places in the state contest. She spelled the words Saturday very rapidly but with much care.

LOCAL FREIGHT BUSINESS ON SOUTHEASTERN LINE HEAVY

Traffic Has Increased Steadily Under Excellent Management of Agent S. L. Cherry.

The freight business at the local office of the Southeastern Line is the heaviest in the history of the road. The freight business has been increasing steadily during the past two years and a half under the efficient management of the agent, S. L. Cherry, until it now surpasses all former records. The traffic has grown to such a point that the employees of the office were unable to handle it as quickly as desired and a new checking clerk, William Bohenkamp, has been added to the office force.

The local office does a large freight business with all points along the system, and Mr. Cherry makes an especial effort to dispatch the shipments received as soon as possible. The patrons of the company know that when the shipments are left at the office they will not be delayed. A large coal business is done here, many of the factories receiving their supply of coal directly from the Indiana mines.

Post Office Holiday.

Wednesday, February 22, is Washington's birthday, which day is observed as a holiday by the Post Office Department. The Seymour postoffice will close at 10 a. m. on the above named holiday and remain closed until 6 p. m. when both the general delivery window and the carriers' window will be open one hour. Office closes for the day at 7 p. m. Carriers will make the usual morning delivery and evening collection. Rural carriers will not go out on their routes that day.

Methodist Revival.

The revival spirit is still on the increase in the First M. E. church. The pastor at the morning service yesterday, plead for more men to come out as workers to win souls for Jesus, and at his call 29 men came to the altar seeking power from God to do such work. The special subject announced for the night service was deferred until next Sunday night. Despite the bad weather there were good audiences at both the services. There will be meetings every day this week at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m.

Public Sale.

I will sell at public auction at my residence, 204 Meyers street on Wednesday, February 22, all my household goods, including 2 heating stoves, 1 cooking stove, 1 gasoline range, and other articles too numerous to mention.

DUCK HUNTERS TAKE COLD DIP

E. B. Springer and Ben Perry of Columbus, Met With Accident on White River.

THEIR CANOE WAS OVERTURNED

Boat Was Found With Shot Gun and It Was Feared That Owner Had Been Drowned.

This morning while several boys were duck hunting on White River several miles this side of Ewing they discovered an overturned canoe floating along the edge of the water. They rowed over to the boat, and when it was upright found lodged in the side a Winchester shot gun and several loaded shells. As the boat was the kind used by duck hunters there was every indication that the owners had met with an accident and were probably drowned. The boys hastened to the home of Gan Tabor who lives near the place where the boat was found, and he in company with several neighbors began an investigation.

It was found that upon the gun was the name of E. B. Springer. Marshal J. T. Abell was notified and asked to inquire if any person of that name had started out upon a duck hunt and had not returned. Marshal Abell knew of several men at Columbus by the name of Springer and telephoned to Marshal Cooper to ascertain if any of them were missing. In a short time Dr. A. P. Roope telephoned Marshal Abell and told him that his nephew E. B. Springer, with Ben Perry had started out on a hunt, and had been away long enough to reach the place where the boat was found. Dr. Roope told the Marshal to spare no expense in making an investigation and to find out all the particulars.

In the meantime, however, the supposed drowned men were enjoying themselves at the comfortable home of Harrold Ortell in this city, discussing what a close call they had experienced. Mr. Ortell rented a cabin along the river, and fortunately was at the cabin when Mr. Springer and Mr. Perry had their little experience. He heard the men struggling in the water, and ran to the bank where he saw them clinging to a small snag in the river. He quickly rowed to them and assisted them to the bank. They explained that they were floating down the river when their boat struck a "blind" snag, and without the least warning the canoe was overturned and they were thrown into the water. Both held to the snag, while the boat and Mr. Springer's gun floated further down the river.

Mr. Ortell brought the men to his home in this city, where they remained until about noon. When they learned that their boat was found they started on their journey, down the river. They were in no way injured and suffered no ill effects from their cold plunge.

LOCAL MEN

Will Attend Reunion of Legislature of 1893 This Week.

The survivors of the legislature of 1893 will hold a reunion at Indianapolis this week and talk over old times.

Mayor Swope of this city, was the representative from Jackson county in that session and S. A. Barnes then located at North Vernon, represented the district composed of Clark, Scott and Jennings county. Both men will probably attend the reunion. The Senator from this district that year was from Washington county.

It is recalled that 1893 was the last year until the present time in which the Democrats had control of all branches of the state government. Claude Mathews was governor and a number of men who have since become prominent in national affairs were members of the legislature. Among them were John W. Kern, who was in the senate and Congressman W. A. Cullop who was then in the lower House.

In 1894 the Republicans swept the platter clean in Indiana, winning the state government, the legislature and electing their candidates for congress in every district in the state. Mr. Barnes protests that the work of the legislature in 93 did not do the job however but charges up the landslide to the legislation at Washington.

STANFIELD APPLE ORCHARD IS SOLD

Rev. Harley Jackson, of Seymour, and Judge Ed Jackson, of New Castle, are the Purchasers.

$12,000 THE CONSIDERATION

Horticulturists Declare That in Two Years The Orchard Will be The Best in Indiana.

Rev. Harley Jackson, of this city, and his cousin, Judge Ed Jackson, of New Castle, purchased of J. T. Stanfield today his large apple orchard three miles southeast of Seymour for $12,000. The purchasers took possession of the orchard immediately upon the sale, and in a short time expect to begin extensive improvements to make it the largest and most profitable apple orchard in the middle west. James Jackson of New Castle, with the assistance of an experienced horticulturist will have active charge of the place.

The Stanfield orchard is one of the largest, if not the largest, apple orchard in Indiana. Two years ago Mr. Stanfield made arrangements with Purdue University whereby the orchard was to be given care and attention under the supervision of the experimental department of that institution and since that time the trees as well as the quality of the fruit have shown a marked improvement. Under the original contract there are yet three years in which the university will have control of the cultivation of the trees.

The experimental department declares that the ground upon which the orchard is located is most suitable for the cultivation of fine apples. The quality of the apples has been decidedly better in the last two years and last fall the crop was the largest ever produced by the orchard. Experienced horticulturists say that the flavor of the apples is perfect, and with a few years more of proper care the trees can be improved, and the fruit produced will be equal to that of the famous western orchards. The new owners expect to expend a large sum of money in caring for the trees as it is a business proposition with them and they realize that if they produce the quality of apples they expect the present method of cultivation must be continued.

Mr. Jackson stated that it was his desire to produce apples which would make Jackson county famous just as it is now known all over the United States and in many foreign countries for its nutmegs and watermelons. He said that he has been assured that this can be done.

An especial effort will be made by the owners to produce an export apple. While there are many excellent orchards in the United States it is said only a small per cent. of the crop is suitable to export. The apples which will be grown here, it is claimed, can be sent abroad and if this is done a high price can be received. However, the owners will not be required to ship them for a ready market can be found in Indiana, and already many commission men are asking for the total crop.

A new country home will be erected upon the place during the next few months, and James Jackson, the manager of the orchard will move there. There is much work to be done about the orchard before spring, and the purchasers are anxious that this be completed as soon as possible. A large number of the pear and plum trees which occupy considerable space in the orchard will be removed to make room for additional apple trees. It is the present intention to set out two thousand additional apple trees during the next few weeks. These will be of the Grimes Golden, Jonathan, Roman Beauty and Ben Davis varieties. Each year the orchard will be increased in size until it practically covers the entire eighty acres.

The trees have just reached the age when the apples will be the finest and Mr. Stanfield would have refused to sell the place had not his interests in the south required that he live there. If the best results are to be obtained the closest attention must be given, and this could not be done properly while he was away.

To Arrange Flowers.

Here are five golden rules which should be observed by those who often arrange flowers. Use plenty of foliage. Put your flowers in very lightly. Use artistic glasses. Do not put more than two or, at the most, three different kinds of flowers in one decoration. Arrange your colors to form a bold contrast or, better still, a soft harmony. The aim of the decorator should be to show off the flowers—not the vases that contain them; therefore the simpler ones are far preferable to even the most elaborate. Glasses for a dinner table should be either white, a delicate shade of green, or rose color, according to the flowers arranged in them.

Man Wanted

By Harriet Lummis Smith

Copyright, 1914, by Associated Literary Press.

It was after midnight and Moulton was returning to his boarding house on bad terms with himself and the world. He had sat through a stupid show for no other reason than that he had nothing else to do. He was wondering how many of these lonely evenings he could endure. He had been in the city six weeks and was as friendless as when he started, the acquaintances he had made in connection with his business and at his boarding house not appealing to him as possible intimates. But this evening he recognized that he was becoming desperate.

"Other fellows make friends," Moulton reflected. "They don't need six weeks to do it, either. How the deuce do they manage it?" He told himself gloomily it was partly a question of luck, and the luck was always against him.

What further pessimistic conclusion he might have reached, left to himself, it is impossible to say, for at this instant he was accosted, and by a young woman. She was dressed most peculiarly for the street, guileless of hat or wrap. Her close-fitting blue frock gave a glimpse of a white neck and the sleeves, ending at the elbow, revealed a pair of plump, pretty arms.

"Excuse me," said the girl to Moulton, and paused.

In Moulton's present state of feeling he would have excused any human being who made advances toward acquaintance, but in the case of the girl, the need of excuses was especially slight.

"Do you," began the girl hesitatingly, "do you mind—rats?"

In an instant Moulton understood. Her unusual dress, her unconventional halting of a stranger and—when he came to notice it—a certain wildness in her gaze, all pointed to the same painful conclusion: This fair young creature had escaped some inexcusably careless keeper. Moulton had had few dealings with the insane, but he recalled having heard that it was advisable always to agree with them. Her voice had trembled as she asked the question, and Moulton promptly fell into her mood.

"Mind them?" he repeated. "I should say I do. Horrible vermin."

It is never well to trust too much to theories, especially the theories of other people. The girl stamped her foot.

"I never heard of such a thing," she cried. "A great big man—you must be fully six feet—afraid of rats."

Moulton hastened to appease her.

"Afraid!" he exclaimed. "Not a bit of it. In fact, I rather like them, if anything. Playful little creatures!"

"Do you like them so well that you would object to killing one?" the girl asked anxiously.

And at that moment it occurred to Moulton that perhaps there was method in her madness. He murmured something unintelligible which she evidently took for assent, for she seemed relieved.

"In that case," she said, "I'll ask you to come up to the library. It's unconventional, I know, but as a rat has had grandma treed on the library table for two hours, and it is long past grandma's bed-time, it doesn't seem to me a time to stand on ceremony."

She led the way into the house, and Moulton, convinced by her tone that her questions were all method and no madness, followed her, congratulating himself on his own good fortune. The library was on the second floor. Its only unconventional feature was an old lady sitting on the library table, with her feet drawn up under her. On the floor below, a fat terrier gazed fixedly at some object hidden by the drooping cover.

At the door the girl paused. "Grandma," she said, "this is Mr.—Mr.—"

"Moulton," prompted the owner of the name.

"This is Mr. Moulton, grandma, and he is going to be kind enough to kill the rat for us."

The girl climbed nimbly into an armchair as she spoke, and stood with her garments drawn tightly about her. The old lady on the table acknowledged the introduction with much dignity.

"I hope, Ethel," she said plaintively, "you have explained the situation. In a housekeeping experience extending over fifty years, Mr. Moulton, there has never been a rat in my house until this moment."

"I haven't explained, but I will," said the girl with an air of not relishing the prospect. "Puck, our dog—"

"Your dog, my dear," said the old lady. "And a very worthless animal."

"Puck," repeated Ethel, looking in the direction of the fat terrier, "caught a rat in the back yard this evening. I called him into the house, and he rushed by me and brought the rat upstairs to show it to us. He was so proud of it, poor fellow."

"Dropped it almost at my feet," exclaimed the old lady, with a shudder of disgust. "The beast!"

"And the rat ran under the table," the girl continued. "And when Puck tried to seize him again, the rat bit him, and the poor thing cried just dreadfully."

"The coward!" observed the old lady, in a sepulchral voice.

"And that's all," said the girl, "except that we didn't dare wake our cook, because she has an aversion to rats compared with which ours is a positive affectation, and there is no man in the house. So after waiting a couple of hours for Puck to finish him, I appealed to you."

Up to this time Moulton had done little of the talking. Now he took a hand. He expressed his pleasure in being able to assist two ladies in such an emergency, and he spoke with a fluency and feeling that surprised himself. Then he seized a brass poker from a little stand near the fireplace and advanced upon the enemy.

The poker was uplifted but did not descend on any scamping rodent. Moulton's look of ferocity gradually changed to one of perplexity.

"I'm afraid that he's gone," he said dejectedly.

"Gone!" wailed Miss Ethel, in accents of heartbreak.

"Gone," repeated Ethel's grandma, with a severity indicating that in this case Moulton was somehow to blame.

"He certainly is not under the table," Moulton replied firmly. "I'll take a look about the room. He may be hiding in some corner."

A careful search, however, revealed no traces of the intruder. "He is not in this room," the older lady said tragically. "Where is he, then? Am I never again to know any peace in my own house?"

"I know I shan't close my eyes to-night," Ethel said with the calmness of despair.

Moulton protested against this extreme view. He thought it would not be a hard matter to get rid of the rat.

"You want to set a trap and—"

"But that's the trouble," Ethel interposed. "If we should ask Lucinda to set a trap I'm sure she'd give warning immediately."

"Perhaps," began Ethel's grandmother, surveying Moulton with interest, "since Mr.—er—Moulton has been so kind, he would put us under further obligation—"

"I'm sure, grandma," protested Ethel, blushing divinely, "that we have imposed on Mr. Moulton sufficiently."

Naturally, Moulton took the opposite view. He was to call the next evening, bringing a trap so disguised as to furnish no clue to the wary eye of the timid domestic. He was also to bring the cheese. He left at a late hour in a beatific mood.

After an evening spent in setting the trap and making advances in the favor of Ethel and her grandmother, Moulton spent several listless days. Then one morning the servant waked him with the information that he was wanted at the telephone. Moulton slipped a bathrobe over his pajamas and went to answer the summons.

"Hello! Hello! Is this Mr. Moulton?"

An ecstatic gasp was her only answer, but it seemed enough. "Oh, Mr. Moulton," she burst out. "He's caught!"

"Is it possible? I congratulate you."

"Yes—but won't you come and help us? Now we've got him we don't know what to do with him."

"I'll come immediately, that is, just as soon as—I'll be there very soon."

"Not too soon, Mr. Moulton. I haven't—I mean I don't want to hurry you."

The rat was speedily dispatched and Moulton remained to breakfast. When an eligible man eats breakfast with a charming girl the rest is mere formality. And these two young people reached an understanding in record time.

"But Moulton" was not allowed to forget to what he owed his happiness. When he asked Ethel's grandmother for her hand the old lady replied with customary frankness:

"Ethel is really too young and silly for marriage," she said. "And I've always had a prejudice against westerners. At the same time, I am going to give my consent. Ever since that rat episode I've felt that we needed a man in the house."

Hammond's Card Trick.

John Hays Hammond, golf partner and political friend of President Taft, can throw three card monte almost as well as a professional. He shows the trick to his friends for amusement only and on rare occasions. It was learned out west years ago when Mr. Hammond was drawing $50,000 a year as a mining engineer and putting the money into mines of his own, which now yield rich returns.

About every mining man in the west knows Mr. Hammond by sight or reputation. He found one who did not in Butte last fall, where he accompanied the president down to the 1,200-foot level in one of the copper mines.

"Quite a novel experience for you to be down in a mine, I suppose," said one of the mining men escorting the party to Mr. Hammond.

"Oh, yes," said Mr. Hammond, "almost as new to me as it is to the president of the United States, I expect."

Terrible Creature.

"Father," said the small boy, "is there any animal more terrible than a lion?" "Yes, my son; a cow. If she isn't kicking you in the neck or pursuing you over the pasture to hook you, she's trying to send germs around to your house in the milk."

Crutches or Biers.

Richard Croker, at a dinner in New York, expressed a distrust for aeroplanes.

"There's nothing underneath them," he said. "If the least thing goes wrong, down they drop."

"I said to a Londoner the other day: 'How is your son getting on since he bought a flying machine?'"

"On crutches, like the rest of them," the Londoner replied.

ECZEMA GONE, BOILS CURED

"My son was about three weeks old when I noticed a breaking-out on his cheeks, from which a watery substance oozed. A short time after, his arms, shoulders and breast broke out also, and in a few days became a solid scab. I became alarmed, and called our family physician, who at once pronounced the disease eczema. The little fellow was under his treatment for about three months. By the end of that time, he seemed no better. I became discouraged, and as I had read the advertisements of Cuticura Remedies and testimonials of a great many people who had used them with wonderful success, I dropped the doctor's treatment, and commenced the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and in a few days noticed a marked change. The eruption on his cheeks was almost healed, and his shoulders, arms and breast were decidedly better. When he was about seven months old all trace of the eczema was gone.

"During his teething period, his head and face were broken out in boils which I cured with Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Surely he must have been a great sufferer. During the time of teething and from the time I dropped the doctor's treatment, I used the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, nothing else, and when two years old he was the picture of health. His complexion was soft and beautiful, and his head a mass of silky curls. I had been afraid that he would never be well, and I feel that I owe a great deal to the Cuticura Remedies." Ignorance.

Laura Jean Libbey, discussing in Brooklyn her appearance on the stage, said:

"I talk in my monologue about love, marriage and the other interests of the heart. On these subjects women, especially young women, are strangely ignorant."

"They really make me think, you know, of the little girl who was asked by her teacher:

"What can you tell us of Solomon?"

"Solomon," replied the little girl, 'was very fond of animals.'

"And how, my dear," said the teacher, 'do you make that out?'

"Because," answered the little girl, 'the Bible says he had 500 porcupines.'

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

All Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."

—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo. The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is more widely and successfully used than any other remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed. Why don't you try it?

A Corner in Candles.

As an example of trusts and monopolies prevalent even in that early day it may be mentioned that in 1750 one Benjamin Crabb obtained the exclusive right to make sperm candles in Massachusetts for 14 years.

A year later, however, a factory was started in Providence, R. I., and within the decade there were eight factories in New England and one in Philadelphia. Their output greatly reduced the price of candles, which not long before sold for five shillings a pound. In those days $1.25 was worth fully three times as much as it is now. —From the Designer.

That Essential Struggle.

There are men who go through life without ever getting what one would call a throw-down or set-back—they never get to know what it means to be rough or tough weather. They seem to be slicked and paved. They seem to be the one great essential thing in every success—the struggle; days when everything looks as though one is about done for and ready to cave in.

EASY CHANGE

When Coffee Is Doing Harm.

A lady writes from the land of cotton of the results of a four years' use of the food beverage—hot Postum.

"Ever since I can remember we had used coffee three times a day. It had a more or less injurious effect upon us all, and I myself suffered almost death from indigestion and nervousness caused by it.

"I know it was that, because when I would leave it off for a few days I would feel better. But it was hard to give it up, even though I realized how harmful it was to me.

"At last I found a perfectly easy way to make the change. Four years ago I abandoned the coffee habit and began to drink Postum, and I also influenced the rest of the family to do the same. Even the children are allowed to drink it freely as they do water. And it has done us all great good.

"I no longer suffer from indigestion, and my nerves are in admirable tone since I began to use Postum. We never use the old coffee any more.

"We appreciate Postum as a delightful and healthful beverage, which not only invigorates but supplies the best of nourishment as well." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

LITTLE BOY HAD A POSER

School Superintendent Could Not Tell Sammy Whether a Duck Has Eyebrows.

"Do not sneer at the juvenile intellect," said John T. Chickering, district superintendent of school in New York. "Sometimes a boy can ask questions that a man can't answer." And he went on to tell of an experience he had when he was principal of one of the New York schools. He was called on by a teacher to come to her aid.

"It's all right," said she, "until natural history hour comes. Sammy Jones lives on a farm, and he thinks he knows more about natural history than the man who invented it. He keeps asking me questions—and if I answer them Sammy laughs, and if I don't the children do. The children would give up their recess if I would lengthen the natural history hour by five minutes."

"So," said Mr. Chickering, "in the pride of my manhood I told her I would come to her rescue. 'One short, sharp answer will denote to Sammy that the matinee is over.' The teacher welcomed my aid. That afternoon I dropped in and took charge of the exercises. I told the children I would allow them just one question each. And Sammy stumped me. I had hardly made the announcement before his hand was up.

"What is it, Sammy?" I asked.

"Has a duck eyebrows?" asked Sammy."

CERTIFICATES FOR BRIDES

Campaign That Is Being Carried on by Swiss Society of Public Utility for Women.

If the influential "Swiss Society of Public Utility for Women," which has branches in every large town in Switzerland, and has done a great deal of good work, has its way, young Swiss women, both married and unmarried, will be physically and medically examined, like their brothers, who are obliged to enter the army.

The society calls upon Swiss women to undergo the test voluntarily, and hopes to inaugurate the service next year. "We feel ourselves responsible," says the society, "for the health, homes and character of our people," and calls upon Swiss young women to undergo a temporary ordeal for the sake of herself, her husband, her children and her country.

"If every young man before his marriage asked for a health certificate of his bride," said a supporter of the scheme to me, "it would be in force tomorrow. The scheme wants the support of both men and women, old and young, of every class, for the benefit of not only Switzerland, but mankind. Every government in the world would be glad to support the movement when once launched. We shall try."

Father's Fortune Ill Luck to Child.

As an indirect result of a fortune inherited by John Cazer of Passaic, N. J., his four-year-old son Joseph died recently after two days of suffering. Cazer was born in Budapest, and a relative who died there two months ago left him the bulk of a comfortable fortune. Cazer went to Hungary to claim his inheritance.

The family, which had been poor, was preparing a welcome for the father, and among other things to be included in the feast on his return were two large hams. The pot containing the hams had been removed from the stove, and the mother left the room temporarily, when little Joseph stumbled into the big pot and was terribly scalded.

A physician was called and remained with the boy almost constantly, but could not save his life. —New York Herald.

Those Dangerous Hatpins.

One of the many objections to the big hats which the women are wearing nowadays is that they need to be secured by pins of proportionate magnitude, and that the points of these pins protrude in a manner which renders them a menace to all who come within their reach. No one can ride in a crowded car without incurring the risk of being jabbed by one of these formidable weapons, and it really is time that the public were protected from this by no means negligible danger by the adoption and enforcement of legislation appropriate to the need.

The Vociferated Phrase.

"You do not seem much impressed by fervent oratory."

"Nope," replied Farmer Cornlossel. "Did you ever notice a poll parrot's vocabulary?"

"What has that to do with it?"

"The words a poll parrot picks up show that it's human nature to frequently be most emphatic when you're sayin' the wrong thing."

Very Much So.

"Don't you think the old stories of wife killers so far from being horrible, are really in their allusions, highly amusing?"

"Yes, indeed, particularly the one where the man just tickled his wife to death."

The Mode.

"Mah lady fren' jes' done cut me at the ball, sah."

"That's too bad, Sam. Did she cut you with acerbity?"

"No, sah. She done cut me with a razor, sah."

BLAME PHYSICIANS FOR GROWTH OF DOPE HABIT

Druggists Say Prescriptions and Not Patent Medicines the Cause.

New York.—Blame for the prevalence and growth of the morphine habit was placed on the shoulders of physicians, who prescribed the drug, at a meeting of druggists here tonight to protest against the recently enacted city ordinance prohibiting the sale at retail of any preparation containing morphine or its salts except upon a doctor's prescription.

The ordinance is aimed primarily at paregoric and at stomach remedies, according to members of the board of health who were instrumental in obtaining its passage. Caswell Mayo, one of the druggists, said he had made a canvass by mail of several sanitariums and the replies convinced him 90 per cent. of the victims of drugs formed the habit as a result of using prescriptions given by physicians and only 8 per cent. from using proprietary medicines.

Was Taking No Chances.

An amusing incident occurred a few days ago outside Maranz, Austria. A cow strayed from the pasture and came within reach of the fort. The officer in command suspected the presence of an automatic photographic apparatus, and had the beast seized and closely examined and when he found nothing to justify his suspicions he turned the animal loose again, under the observation of two of his men, charged with the duty of following the suspected home to ascertain whether her owner was an Italian spy.

One's Own Heaven and Hell.

Most of our grief comes from within—we torture and torment our very souls. Each man makes his heaven—each man makes his hell. Each man knows when and where he is right, just as he knows when and where he is wrong. Each man realizes just where and when he is weak, and when and where he is strong. But many take entirely too many liberties with themselves.—Exchange.

ENLIST AID OF CHURCHES

Powerful Weapon Brought to Bear in the Fight Against Tuberculosis.

Just how serious a problem tuberculosis is to the average church, and in just what ways pastors are called upon to minister to those suffering from this disease, is the subject of an investigation which the national association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis is conducting in connection with its plans for tuberculosis day on April 30. Statistics are being gathered from thousands of ministers regarding this subject, and among other figures the number of deaths last year from tuberculosis in the church congregation will be given. It is planned to place these statistics together with other educational material, in the hands of every minister in the country for his use in connection with Tuberculosis day. Millions of circulars and pamphlets on the prevention of tuberculosis will also be issued, both from the national office and from the headquarters of the 450 anti-tuberculosis associations who will co-operate in the movement.

"Aye, mon, the mornn," said Sandy. "I'll go ye a roond on the links the mornn."

"Aye weel," said Sandy. "I'll go ye. But I had intended to get married in the mornn."

A Transaction in Stamps.

The stamp vending machines installed in many stores and shops about the city are not favored by a woman who hurried into a drug store in Massachusetts avenue several days ago where there is a branch post office.

"How do you sell your two-cent stamps?" she inquired indignantly.

"Two cents apiece," replied Bassett.

"Well, that's all right," she replied, while she fished in her purse for a coin. "This is the fifth place I have visited after stamps. At all the other places they had those slot machines where you have to spend a nickel for two two-cent stamps. I made up my mind not to be held up if I had to walk all over the city. Give me two stamps."

The woman laid down a dime and hurried out with two two-cent stamps, leaving six cents in change lying on the show case. She did not return.—Indianapolis News.

BURDENS LIFTED FROM BAD BACKS

Weary is the back that bears the burden of kidney ills. There's no rest or peace for the man or woman who has a bad back. The distress begins in early morning. You feel lame and not refreshed. It's hard to get out of bed. It hurts to stoop to tie your shoes. All day the ache keeps up. Any sudden movement sends sharp twinges through the back. It is torture to stoop and straighten. At night the sufferer retires to toss and twist and groan. Backache is kidney ache—a throbbing, dull aching in the kidneys. Plasters or liniments won't do. You must get at the cause, inside.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS CURE SICK KIDNEYS

COMPLETELY PROSTRATED.

Mrs. Eliza Kirk, S. Main St., Spencer, Ind., says: "I had been prostrated with inflammatory rheumatism. My limbs were swollen, hands drawn out of shape and I was so sensitive to pain I had to be turned in sheets. It was surprising how quickly Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me and how soon I was cured. For three years my cure has been permanent."

How To Tell When The Kidneys Are Disordered--

Painful Symptoms: Backache, sideache, pains when stooping or lifting, sudden sharp twinges, rheumatic pains, neuralgia, painful, scanty or too frequent urination, dizzy spells, dropsy.

Urinary Symptoms: Discolored or cloudy urine; Urine that contains sediment. Urine that stains the linen. Painful passages. Blood or shreds in the urine. Let a bottle of the morning urine stand for 24 hours. If it shows a cloudy or fleecy settling, or a layer of fine grains, like brick dust, the kidneys are probably disordered.

LOCAL MAN CLOSED BIG TIMBER DEAL

M. A. St. John Sold Oak, Ash and Cypress off 2,800 Acres of Land for $70,000.

IS LOCATED IN ARKANSAS

Purchasers Were McLean Hardwood Company, of Memphis, Tenn., Formerly of Bedford.

M. A. St. John, of this city, has closed a deal with the McLean Hardwood Lumber Company, of Memphis, Tenn., whereby he will sell the oak, ash and cypress off 2,800 acres of land located in Woodruff county, Arkansas. The consideration was $70,000. Mr. St. John purchased the land and a levee constructed to protect it from the overflows.

After the oak, cypress and ash trees have been removed, Mr. St. John will still have over ten million feet of gum, hickory and elm left. This land is also valuable, as it is very fertile, and suitable for almost any kind of products. The soil is very similar to that of the White River bottoms and is from twelve to twenty inches deep.

The McLean Company, the purchasers of the timber, were formerly located at Bedford. They located their plant at Memphis several years ago, and are now equipped to cut twelve million feet of oak annually.

The Memphis Appeal has the following article regarding the sale:

E. R. Knight director of the McLean Hardwood Lumber Company, yesterday closed a timber deal by which his company bought the oak, ash and cypress off 2,800 acres of land in Woodruff county, Arkansas, near Cotton Plant. The consideration was $70,000. The tract is said to be one of the finest oak crop propositions of its size in the Memphis territory. The land lies along the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad, and the logs will be shipped on that road, thence to Memphis, possibly via Helena, for manufacture here. The trade was made direct between Mr. McKnight for his company and M. A. St. John of Seymour, Ind., owner of the land.

The McLean plant in New South Memphis is one of the best equipped in the world for hardwood sawing, having a full complement of band and resaws, with all modern appliances for the quick and economical handling of the product.

Preferred Death to Prison.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 20.—Making good a frequent boast that he would not be sent to the penitentiary, although he had confessed to a charge of forgery, Amon S. Hook, twenty-three years old, a prisoner in the Jefferson county jail, committed suicide by hanging himself with a pair of suspenders. Hook came to Louisville from Glendean, Ky.

Mob Spirit Was Keen.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 20.—Dick Bentley, a negro, suspected of assaulting Miss Ethel Warren, a pretty young woman of Lawrenceburg, Ky., a few weeks ago, was identified by the girl as the man who attacked her. The mob spirit was keen in Lawrenceburg at the time of the assault and the suspect was brought here for safe keeping.

SHORTER TIME FOR LOCAL MEN

B. & O. Retrenchment Policy Affects Number of Employees in Seymour.

SHOPS CLOSE AT WASHINGTON

Five Hundred Men Out of Employment Until March 1.—Reduced Hours for Others.

Some of the local employees are having a taste of the B. & O. retrenchment policy.

Orders were received this morning cutting the time of round house and repair track men from ten to eight hours a day. The order is effective until March 1. Five machinists, one boiler maker and about twenty yard men are affected.

Since the settlement the first of the year the strike in the Washington and other shops the road has been economizing in every way possible in effort to get the expenses of the shop and repair departments within the limit of the allowance for this department. The allowance for the year had been greatly exceeded. Some time ago practically all the men in the different shops were laid off for two days and company officials stated that $50,000 was saved thereby.

The order which effects the Seymour men has hit Washington hard. It was received there Saturday and closes the shops for ten days. The men there have been working at reduced hours for two weeks and now over 500 will be entirely out of employment until the first of next month. It is not known whether they will return to work on full time then or not. Only about 120 men will be retained at the round house to do the work that is absolutely necessary in repairing and getting out the engines.

Washington merchants will feel the effect of the suspension of work as it will mean a big cut in the amount of money that will be spent there during the lay off. The shop employees will feel the order more at this time also as many of them had not worked the unusual time the past year on account of the strike.

FREE IF IT FAILS.

Your Money Back If You Are Not Satisfied With the Medicine We Recommend.

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children, delicate persons and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge, cause excessive looseness or create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time, day or night. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not of surgical variety, and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, if taken with regularity for a reasonable length of time. 12 tablets, 10 cents; 36 tablets, 25 cents. Sold in Seymour only at our store,—The Rexall Store. The Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

Some men give up as readily to masked bandits as they do to fake gold mine promoters.

But is shooting ducks from an aeroplane true sportsmanship? Why not give the ducks a chance?

Maybe some people prefer ragtime and organized cheering because it drowns the other kind of music.

If those who indulge in organized cheering do not enjoy it they think they do, which is much the same.

Portland, Ore., expects to have a million inhabitants in 25 years. All right, but Portland should take it to heart that she cannot get them by padding the census.

What's the sense in kicking because you have to take the ashes from under the furnace? A man in Iowa has sued for divorce because his wife made him sleep with the cows.

Still there is this much to be said for those attempts to break the altitude record: In case of accident a few thousand feet more or less makes no difference, even to the undertaker.

A machine that measures thought has been invented. It will not have to go very far in measuring the thought of the young man who proposes to reform by first going on a spree.

In view of the published assertion that about 30 per cent. of the people of New York state are insane, it is not surprising that insanity is so frequently pleaded there as an excuse for crime.

GOOD CHARACTERISTICS OF BROWN SWISS DAIRY CATTLE

Cows Show High Degree of Efficiency in Converting Feed Into Milk or Flesh—They Are Not of Nervous Disposition or Habit.

Beginning in the year 1870, Brown Swiss cows and heifers to the extent of about one hundred and fifty have been imported into the United States. Descended from these, over 7,000 pure bred animals have been registered in the Herd Book.

In the native country of the Swiss cattle there is no attempt at line breeding or fancy breeding, says a writer in Northwestern Agriculturist. What they seek to perpetuate are good cows, cows that give a good quantity of good milk, and that have shape and size.

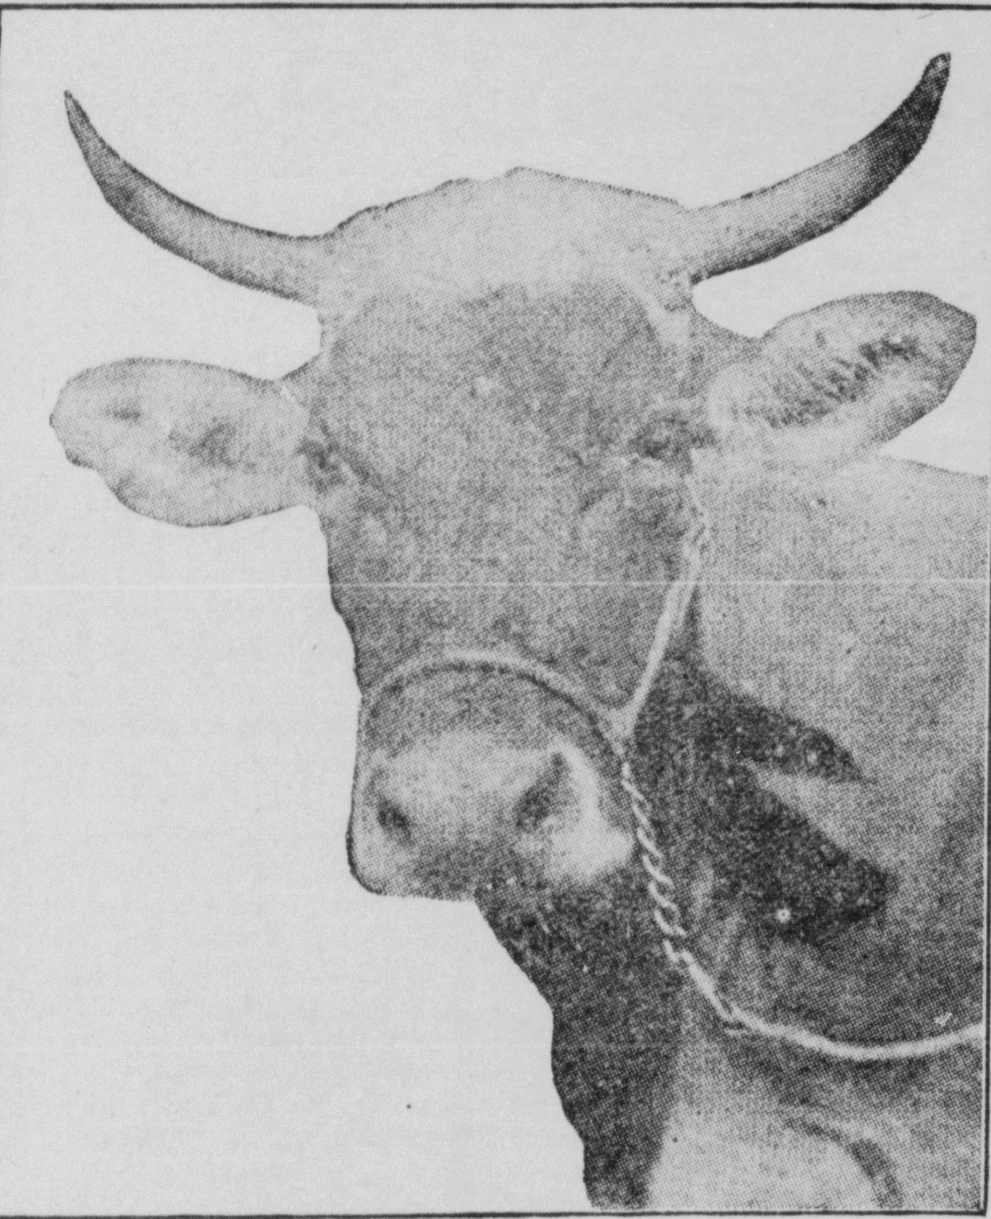

Considering the small number to choose from in the entire country, it is rather remarkable that its representatives have achieved so large a number of high records for dairy performances, and that the breed stands as well as it does in general estimation where it is known.

The highest official world's record in a dairy test for cows away from home is that of the Brown Swiss cow Brienz, 168, made at Chicago, in November, 1891, the results being taken of the Swiss breed. At eleven and twelve years of age the cows are in the prime of their life.

It is probable that the Brown Swiss race has quite a different origin from the races of western Europe. There are indications that it is more ancient than any of the other established races. They have been bred by a pastoral people for the same purpose, in the same locality, for a longer time than almost any other breed. Its general character, its color points, its points of conformation are probably more firmly fixed than those of any other breed.

Experience in crossing confirms what we are able to learn from history and paleontology in this respect. As a consequence the breed characteristics are readily imparted to cross-bred animals when cows of other breeds or grades of other breeds are bred to Swiss bulls. Grade Swiss cattle even of the first and second generations are often hard to distinguish by their conformation and color marks from pure bred Swiss animals. The grades are sure to gain in and certified to by the officials of the University of Illinois. In three days she gave 245 pounds of milk, 9.32 pounds of butter fat, and 11.66 pounds of butter.

The Royal Academy at Poppelsdorf, Germany, made a selection of ten Swiss cows for a test in the years 1900 and 1901. The results were very satisfactory.

An average herd of cows in milking condition would weigh 1,300 to 1,400 pounds apiece. They tend to take on fat readily when dry and give it off slowly when in milk. The average herd of cows when fattened would weigh 1,500 pounds or more. Bulls in good condition would weigh from 1,700 up to 2,500 pounds. The Swiss calf at a month old will weigh 180 to 200 pounds, and at two years 1,500 pounds.

It is a general characteristic of the Brown Swiss cows to show a high degree of efficiency in converting feed into milk or into flesh, and a pronounced characteristic that they are not of a nervous disposition or habit. It is not necessary to keep strangers out of the barn or to avoid talking at milking time. A barn full of them, or a single one, will go on stolidly giving the regular yield of milk undisturbed through a commotion that will quite demoralize more nervous cows.

Growing out of the strength of constitution and the absence of nervous fidgets, is the characteristic long life dairy qualities over their dams, and to have in addition, size, constitution and hardiness.

In Brown Swiss cows we have a constitution to which a fair amount of flesh is normal, a contented but hearty disposition, an absence of worry, but a great capacity for making milk and butterfat. All we have to do is to work in accord with nature, and without sacrificing anything of profitability for the dairy, we have a strong and sturdy type of beauty, and especially that kind of beauty that shines from the reflection of coin and which exemplifies the proverb "Handsome is that handsome does."

Winter Work for Teams.

After the fall crops have been sold or housed, the teams should not be allowed to stand idle if manure is available at reasonable prices. The greatest need of nearly all soils is vegetable matter and it is often important to haul manure for this purpose only, although the supply of plant food is often worth more than the cost of manure. A very common plan is to spread the manure in the fields as fast as it is hauled, while many gardeners prefer to place it in piles until the ground is dry enough in the spring. It is seldom spread before the ground is dry enough because it serves as a mulch and delays plowing.

WELL BALANCED MEAT RATION

In the above chart the shaded portions represent the digestible protein (lean meat formers) of each food and the blank unshaded portions indicate the amount of digestible carbohydrates (starches, etc.), and oils which go to produce body heat and fat. A well balanced ration is shown to contain about one of protein to seven of carbohydrates. A combination of corn and alfalfa hay comes near to the required standard.

OIL MAY REPLACE COAL

Owners of a Steel Plant Are Planning an Experiment With New Process of Heating.

Geologists and other experts differ as to the period that must elapse before the coal fields now actively mining will show signs of exhaustion. Vast areas of coal deposits exist in Alaska, China and elsewhere which remain untouched, but approximately 400 years is the lowest calculation of the time required to consume the coal deposits of America and England at the present rate of consumption.

In the meantime vast changes in the production of power for manufacturing purposes are certain to take place. Streams in all parts of the world will be utilized for generating electricity. Problems relating to the transmission of the current over long distances with a minimum leakage are engaging the attention of electrical engineers. A solution will surely be forthcoming.

A century hence the smoke nuisance in cities may not be understood, for the simple reason that all power used in factories and heat for domestic purposes are likely to be supplied by water-generated electricity. The production of coal has already become so expensive that experiments in the use of oil as fuel in steamships and war vessels have made considerable progress. Relative success appears to have attended these trials.

No more interesting experiment with oil fuel has been made, however, than that which the owners of a new steel plant at Pottsville, Pa., are planning. For the sake of economy in fuel cost an oil process is to be used in heating two new hearth furnaces. In the event of success, accompanied with proportionate economy thereof, scarcely a rolling mill in the world that would not sooner or later adopt the oil process of heating.

Every such experiment has a tendency to decrease the dependence of the world on coal.

LUMETER A NEW INSTRUMENT

Device Made By British Opticians to Measure the Surface Brightness of Illuminated Objects.

The "lumeter" is an instrument designed by J. S. Dow and V. H. Mackinney, British opticians, to measure the surface of brightness of illuminated objects, and it gives a simple means of studying the distribution of lighting. The illuminated object under test is viewed through an aperture in an illuminated screen, which is kept at uniform brightness by a suitably-placed small glow lamp. The relative brilliancy of the observed surface and the screen can be adjusted until they appear equal, and a graduated scale then indicates the surface brightness of the standard illuminated screen. Trials of the instrument in classrooms, work-rooms, etc., have shown surprising variations in the lighting of interiors. In a technical college classroom 25 by 30 feet in size, with large windows on the street side, the illumination of the best-lighted desk at five o'clock on a September day was ten foot-candles, while that of the poorest seat was only 0.6 foot-candle, and the illumination of the blackboard varied from five foot-candles, at one end to 0.5 at the other. In one of London's underground tubes the horizontal illumination was 1.1 to 1.3 foot-candles with the train at rest, falling to 0.7 to 0.9 foot-candles on entering the tunnel.

History vs. Nonsense.

Little Robbie came home one day considerably agitated over a question that had come up in school. Rushing into the house he demanded of his father:

"Say, pa, who was Demosthenes?" Robbie's father was one of those individuals who was dissatisfied with the general trend of modern educational methods, and frowned on the so-called frills and frivolities injected into the classroom work.

"Demosthenes," he answered sharply, "was one of the early kings of Egypt. I don't see why the schools don't cut out some of their nonsense and teach history."

Women and Dress.

In the matter of dress variety is to the civilized woman what finery is to the savage. The more civilized women become, the more variety they must have. Things have come to such a pass now that the daily papers must tell the news of the fashions; the gravest journal dare not ignore them. Side by side with the affairs of the realm and the annals of court and of crime stand the kaleidoscopic details of colored stuffs and fantastic styles which delight the feminine public.—London Spectator.

A Novel for Tennyson.

Tennyson would have scooped the idea of a limit of 150,000 words for novels. William Allingham notes in his diary on August 28, 1880, when on a visit to Farringford, "Tennyson is a constant novel reader, and says, 'What I dislike is beginning a new novel. I should like to have a novel to read in a million volumes, to last me my life.'"—London Chronicle.

Merely an Exception.

A man in Massachusetts, aged fifty-two, has been sent to the workhouse because a woman, aged seventy, complained that he kissed her. And yet Benjamin Franklin said that old women were so grateful for little attentions.

FOR THE CITY BEAUTIFUL

Artistic Wave Sweeping Civilization to More Beautiful Realization in City Building.

An exhibition at the Royal Academy, London, illustrates concretely and impressively the universal attention that is being given to the matter of planning the growth of cities and towns upon both scientific and artistic principles. Not alone in what are regarded as the more progressive countries of Europe is there being manifested a purpose to lay out the suburban growth of cities upon carefully devised and supervised plans, but even Turkey and Persia have caught something of the artistic wave that is sweeping civilization to a better and more beautiful realization in city building.

An idealization—that is, in showing on paper what the ideal city should be—the drawings of a few American architects which are on display at the Royal Academy are concededly in advance of any similar exhibit by any of the European architects or city planners. These American plans, however, which have been drawn with reference to certain American cities are dreams merely—dreams that may never come true, because, in the realization they would entail a tearing down and building over on a scale of magnitude that is apparently impracticable. While the United States makes the most impressive showing in the history of city building, it is Germany that shows the best materialization of artistic and scientific ideals.

While we are talking on this side of the Atlantic about a glorified Baltimore or a paradisaical Chicago, the Germans are doing some real glorifying in shaping not only suburban growth of their important cities, but in rearranging the central business areas and the older residential sections. The German exhibit at the Royal Academy illustrative of modern city building occupies seven galleries, and what has been accomplished in scores of German towns and cities is set forth by maps, drawings and ingenious models. During the past forty years German cities that had been previously for two or three centuries at a standstill stage of population growth have doubled, and in some instances increased threefold in population. In such cities there are new town and old town section, but in many instances the older sections have been so vastly reformed that the early layouts, or, rather, lack of layouts, have been lost in the modifications.

SPEND MONEY IN BOOSTING

Towns and States Carry Extensive Campaign of Advertising Their Resources.

Spokane, Wash., laid out more than $100,000 last year holding herself up to the public gaze; Memphis expects to spend $25,000 this year for the same purpose; St. Paul, $18,000; Chicago, with a "Booster club" of 3,000 hustlers, pays an advertising manager a salary of $10,000 a year and does not consider that she really needs much boosting either.

The advertising bills of the city of New York during the last six years aggregated a trifle under five millions of dollars, says Business. Denver, Des Moines, Detroit, Kansas City, Mo., St. Louis, Toledo, Minneapolis, Montgomery, Ala.; Buffalo, Oklahoma City, Topeka and Wichita, Kan.; Indianapolis, New Orleans, Rochester, Cleveland—one might fill a page with a list of the cities that are boosting and booming themselves systematically and resolutely, and laying out their good, hard coin to do it.

The Greater Georgia association, with a membership of nearly 20,000, is at work raising $200,000 to be used in exploiting the state and expects to establish permanent advertising headquarters in many cities throughout the country. Mississippi is getting busy with a somewhat similar plan; 80 Nebraska newspapers have pledged themselves to methodically exploit their commonwealth and to raise $25,000 within the coming year with which to do the work; the Northern Pacific Railway company has just put a force of 30 writers and publicity men to work on a campaign of advertising for Oregon.

Money in Back Yards.

The importance of the back yard as a source of this kind of food supply has not been sufficiently emphasized. Here alone could be produced enough food to feed the family for several months of the year.

And then if fruit and berry trees were planted along the country lanes, and on the vast amount of land outside of the cities, being held by their owners for higher prices, there would be such an abundance of the most healthful and life-sustaining food in America, that no inhabitant of this country would want. The high "cost of living problem" would vanish as a pestilence after a sanitary crusade, and in truth this would be "the land of health and plenty."

THE SCHOOLS OF WESTERN CANADA

In Some of the Cities and Towns the School Buildings Cannot Accommodate the Increasing Numbers.

One of the most important factors in the building of a new country is the attention that is paid by the authorities to the education of the rising generation. Fortunately for western Canada, the settlement of that new country began in such recent years that it was able to lay a foundation for this work, gained by the experience of older countries. In this way the very best is the result. Throughout the entire country are to be seen the most improved style of architecture in school buildings. The cities and towns vie with each other in the efforts to secure the best of accommodation and at the same time get architectural lines that would appeal. Sufficient to say that nowhere is there the greater attention paid to elementary and advanced education than in western Canada. A report just to hand shows that in Calgary, Alberta, there are eighty teachers employed, and the enrollment 4,228 pupils. In the Province of Alberta there was a total of 46,000 pupils attending schools in 1909. The total enrollment for the year in city, town and village schools was 22,883, and the total in rural schools was 23,165. There are in the province 970 schools with 1,323 departments. At the close of 1909 there was a total of 1,096 school districts in the province. Great attention is paid also to agricultural education. The best uses of the soil and such other matters as tend to make the agriculture less of a drudge and more of a success are employed. When there is the combination of good soil, splendid climate and healthy and advanced ideas in the methods employed in agriculture, we see accomplished the results that have placed western Canada on its present high plane in the agricultural world. There is to be found men of high standing in literary spheres as well as in financial circles who are carrying on farming, not alone for the pleasure they derive but for the profit they secure. Mr. Adler, a wide-awake business man of New York, has a ranch near Strathmore, Alberta. He is highly pleased with his success the past year. He says:

"On July 25th we estimated our crop at 6,000 bushels of wheat. A week later we increased our estimate to 12,000 bushels. A few days later we again increased our estimate, this time to 18,000 bushels, but after harvest in September we found we had 20,150 bushels. If that isn't a record, what is?" he asked.

"This crop was made with practically no moisture," he continued, "and we now have a better opinion of the fertility of Alberta lands than ever and value our lands higher than we ever did before."

Mr. Adler, who has been on the ranch for about a week, leaves for New York Saturday.

This gentleman is conducting a farm on a large scale, and has plenty of means to develop it, and his may not be taken as a fair case. There are, though, instances of thousands who have begun life on small farms in western Canada with but brains and the determination over and above the couple of hundred dollars in ready money that they possessed, and today are owners of large farms and handsome incomes, all the result of their efforts on land that was responsive to the touch of the hand that held the plow. Instances such as these can be quoted if you will communicate with the nearest Canadian government agent, who will also mail you free descriptive literature.

THE USUAL RESULT.

Vagaries of Finance.

"Yep," replied Farmer Cornloss. "Then why do you complain of hard times?"

"All the neighbors have done the same thing. That leaves me with money on my hands that nobody wants to borrow."

"Yes, but that was all."

Ways of Serving Chicken.

Chicken need not be an extravagant dish, as the bits of left-over meat may be worked into croquettes, salads, creamed chicken and numerous other dishes. The bones of the chicken need not be wasted, as they will make soup and broths.

Chicken a la Marengo.—This is said to be the dish that was served Napoleon after the battle of Marengo. Singe and clean a five-pound chicken, cut it up as for a fricassee. In a saucepan melt two tablespoonfuls of butter and add three tablespoonfuls of olive oil. When it is hot, add the white meat, with salt, pepper and a clove of garlic. Mix and cook over the heat until each piece is a golden brown. Have ready a tomato sauce made from a can of tomatoes, a little onion, parsley, carrot and celery which have been cooked until thick, then rubbed through a sieve, and a tablespoonful of butter added. To the chicken add a pound of fresh mushrooms which have been peeled and sautéed in a little butter for five minutes. Arrange the chicken on a platter and add to the gravy three tablespoonfuls of tomato puree; stir until it is hot. Pour over the chicken and serve.

Chicken GIBLETS on Toast.—Cook the giblets until tender over a slow fire, then chop fine; add the broth in which they were cooked, season with salt, pepper and a little onion, add a half cup of hot cream. Pour over buttered toast and serve.

Chicken Croquettes.—Boil a young chicken until tender, cut the meat into dice. Sauté in butter a half pound of fresh mushrooms, make a cream sauce using the broth and equal quantity of cream in making the sauce; use three tablespoonfuls of butter and three of flour; cook together, then add a cup each of broth and thick cream.

Chicken cut up and baked in milk is a new dish to many. Cover the first hour of cooking and remove the cover to brown. Thicken the milk for a gravy and serve poured around the chicken.

For Washington's Birthday.

The red, white and blue of the flag seems to be the appropriate color scheme for Washington Birthday entertainments. There are so many pretty little things in the shops that may be used for this occasion. Boxes made in the form of drums or cocked hats, which may be used for salted nuts or bon bons.

Small flags tied to stand make very pretty decoration; they may be used to hold the place card.

Poncett made into balls and dipped into chocolate make very real-looking cannon balls, and if piled cannon-ball fashion add to the appropriately decorated table.

Cherries are, of course, the fruit most appropriate to the occasion, and may be used in numerous ways for decoration or on food combinations.

For a children's party, a nice little surprise cake may be made, using the ordinary sponge cake mixture, which is more wholesome than the rich cup cakes for the little people. Bake them in gem pans, the little brownie irons are a nice shape. When cold, cut off a slice and scoop out the center, fill them with preserved cherries, put back the slice and cover with a boiled frosting or dip them in softened fondant.

Pineapple Lemonade.

Make a sirup by boiling two cupfuls of sugar and a cup of water together ten minutes, add the juice of three lemons and one can of grated pineapple. Cool, strain and dilute with one quart of water.

A delicious sandwich to serve with this lemonade is cottage cheese, well seasoned with salt and well mixed with chopped candied cherries.

French chops may be arranged on a platter to simulate a cannon and potatoes cut into balls and browned in fat may be piled to look like cannon balls. The potatoes should first be parboiled until nearly tender, then browned in hot fat.

TASTY SWEET POTATO

SOME WAYS OF PREPARING DELICIOUS VEGETABLE.

Baking Is Most Common Form of Serving, But Fried or Stewed They Are Toothsome—Sweet Potato Croquettes.

Here are a few ways of preparing sweet potatoes that the housewife might find worth while trying:

Baked Sweet Potatoes.—Take them of same size, wash well, cut off ends, put them into oven, turn them once when half done, bake slowly. Set a small basin of water in oven while baking. When done serve in jackets or peel and slice, put a layer on bottom of shallow baking dish, then a few bits of butter, a little sugar, a slight seasoning of nutmeg or cinnamon, another layer of potatoes and seasoning, and so on. Set in the oven until hot and serve.

To Fry Sweet Potatoes.—Peel and slice large sweet potatoes about one-quarter inch thick. I usually slice lengthwise. I use my heavy iron frying pan or skillet. Fry in hot lard, turn, salt each piece slightly. Makes a good breakfast or supper dish.

Stewed Sweet Potatoes.—Peel and slice half-inch thick; stew with pork chops or pieces of the tenderloin. Season with salt, pepper and a little minced parsley. Take all up together when done.

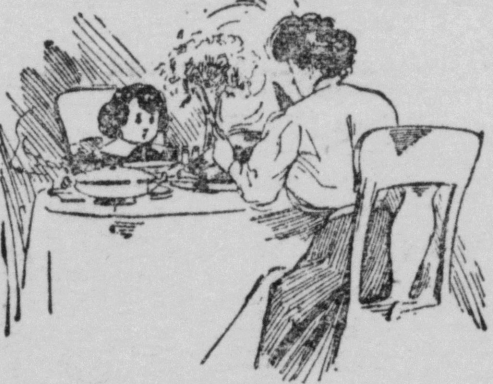

Sweet Potato Croquettes.—Mix two cups of cold mashed sweet potatoes with a tablespoon of butter, well-beaten egg, a little salt and pepper. Make into small cakes or egg-shaped balls, dip in yolk of one egg well-beaten, or use all the egg. Roll in cracker crumbs and fry in half lard and butter. I do not use any butter to fry them in, as it is too expensive.

Sweet potatoes do not require as much salt as Irish potatoes. Sweet potatoes are fine peeled and roasted or baked in dripping pan along with your roast. Baste them with juice and gravy, same as meat, or roast them under meat.

Velvet Cream.

Six eggs, two cups of granulated sugar. Beat eggs and sugar together until very light, add two quarts of milk, one quart hot and one quart cold. Put the cold milk over the eggs and sugar, stir well, then add the hot milk. Put into double boiler, stir constantly for ten minutes, until it becomes very thick. When cold flavor with vanilla and freeze. This can be improved by adding cream and to each pint of cream one-half teacup of sugar.

The Home

Hang up a pincushion in the kitchen. One kept clean is worth a dozen make cleans.

Apply a drop of oil to the door hinges to keep them from creaking. A cork soaked in oil makes a good substitute for a glass stopper.

Flower pot stains may be removed from window sills with fine wood ashes.

Try a little baking soda and hot water when cleaning kitchen utensils. Rub ivory knife handles that have become yellow with age or use with No. 00 handpaper or fine emery.

The most effectual remedy for slimy and greasy drain pipes is copperas dissolved, and left to work gradually through the pipes.

Knives should never be dipped in hot water, as it loosens the handles. The blades may be placed upright in the water in a mug, by which plan the handles will be kept dry.

Steel knives that are not in general use may be kept from rusting if they are dipped in a strong solution of soda (one part water to four parts soda). Then wipe dry, roll in flannel and keep in a dry place.

Garnish for Chicken.

One cup of mashed potatoes, two well beaten eggs, half a cup of cracker meal and three tablespoonfuls of milk. Season with pepper, salt and sage. Make into balls about the size of an ordinary egg, and lay them in a dripping pan, with four tablespoonfuls of butter. Let them brown and fry them around the roasted or fried chicken.

Cauliflower.

Cauliflower, "the cabbage with a celery education," is one of the most delicious vegetables. When carefully cooked it is snowy white and so tender it melts in the mouth. It is at its best when boiled and served with a rich cream sauce.

Raspberry Ice.

Five cups of water, juice of one-half lemon, two cups of sugar, one cup of strained raspberry sirup. Boil sugar and water ten minutes, cool, add lemon juice and raspberry sirup; freeze.

Artificial Flowers

FLOWERS, more particularly roses, made of ribbon and other fabrics have never been so popular as during the present season. The time it takes to make them has always kept the price of such flowers high. Many of them take so little material that they can be made of scraps of ribbon while others take from a third to a yard and a half to make. Big American Beauty roses made of wide satin ribbon doubled lengthwise and wound about a center of cotton are expensive but so durable that they are favored for many decorative purposes. They have been used, mounted on millinery stems with millinery foliage as favors and dinner souvenirs for a number of seasons, by the best hostesses. Table decorations of ribbon flowers are exquisite, not as substitutes for natural flowers, but used in novel ways and exaggerated sizes. A center piece of roses, or one immense rose makes a fascinating base for the light, and roses from which candles spring are little bits of perfection. Some of the newest ones are made of ribbon which is translucent and the heart of the rose (and this is a touch of real genius) is a tiny bulb glowing with light.

But it is the decoration of millinery that fabric flowers, fashioned in the milliner's own workrooms, have forged to the front in popular favor. People who want them should not complain of high prices. Their recourse is to make them at home—since the time of the milliner is money. Almost every woman owns stems and foliage which may be used with these ribbon flowers, for foliage and stems outlast the millinery flowers as a rule. Leaves are easily smoothed out with a small, slightly warm iron. She who is clever with paints can use them to advantage in freshening foliage.

The roses and flowers are made in such a variety of ways that it is best to select a certain kind and copy it. Those in which the petals are made of short lengths gathered at both ends and along one edge, take less material than those that are wound about a center. Buds are made of little squares of ribbon mounted in a millinery calyx, and take very little material.

Illustrations are given here of several varieties of roses and buds; a little experimenting will develop the flowers satisfactorily.

IN VELVETEEN AND CASHMERE

Charming Dress That is Made Effective by a Combination of Colors.

This charming dress is a combination of velveteen and very fine cashmere in a rich tone of amethyst.

The trained skirt is plain, and then over it is a long tunic of cashmere edged with a narrow border of skunk; the kimono bodice opens in front over a vest of velveteen with small lace yoke; the edges of bodice and oversleeves are trimmed with fur; the undersleeves are of lace. A handsome silk girdle is knotted round the waist, the long tasseled ends falling over front of skirt.

Materials required: 10 yards velveteen, 5 yards cashmere.

STYLES DISPLAY THE SHOES

Prevailing Short Skirts Make Footwear a Highly Important Consideration.

Footwear is made prominent this season by the styles in vogue, the short, scant walking skirt being well calculated to display the feet. The attention thus focussed has brought about some smart results. There is a marked preference for the high buttoned boot with its Cuban heel, which is shown in calfskin and suede and also in velvet, for the tendency of fashion to make much of rich fabrics has extended even to the world of footwear. Black, brown and navy-blue velvet are greatly favored to carry out the fashionable conceit of a one-tone street costume, and these harmonizing boots are really very fascinating with their long lines of tiny smoked-pearl buttons.

Slippers also partake of this general use of rich materials. Black satin is always correct for dressy wear, and this season black velvet is also greatly favored. The deforming rosette is being displaced by the widespread use of buckles for ornamenting slippers. For formal wear the scintillating rhinestones are of course the most effective. Very handsome evening slippers for full dress are sometimes fashioned of cloth of silver or gold, and, again, often of brocade. Of course, the hosiery always matches light-colored slippers, and many beautiful silk stockings are shown having elaborately wrought drawn-work decorations, or else daintily-embroidered floral designs.—The New Idea Woman's Magazine.

New Petticoats.

The prettiest thing I have seen recently in this line is a charming chiffon cloth skirt in two colors, a pink under a white, for instance, with knee deep plaited flounces plainly hemmed. Can you imagine anything softer or more utterly feminine than these? The colors are beautiful, too, all the pale shades in combination, besides such striking combinations as black over brilliant green or crimson for more practical wear.—Smart Set.

Robe Novelties.

Among the novelties in robes are those with the upper part of cashmere de sole.

The bottom of this material is finished with a pine-patterned border in exquisite colorings, while below the border in exquisite colorings, while below the border the frock is finished with a deep plain band of ratine in a much darker color than the cashmere.

HINTS WORTH REMEMBERING

Useful Information That May Save Housekeeper Both Time and Trouble.

To polish aluminum, make a mixture of borax, ammonia and water. Apply with a soft cloth.

Tiny ends of candles should be kept to add to the starch on wash days. They will add to the gloss.

When next making rice pudding, flavor with lemon and cinnamon. It will be found exceedingly tasty.

To mend a torn umbrella, stick black court plaster inside the tear. This will show less than a darn and will last for some time.

To remove grease from carpets, make a paste of fuller's earth and ammonia. Spread over the marks and leave till dry. Then sweep in the ordinary way.

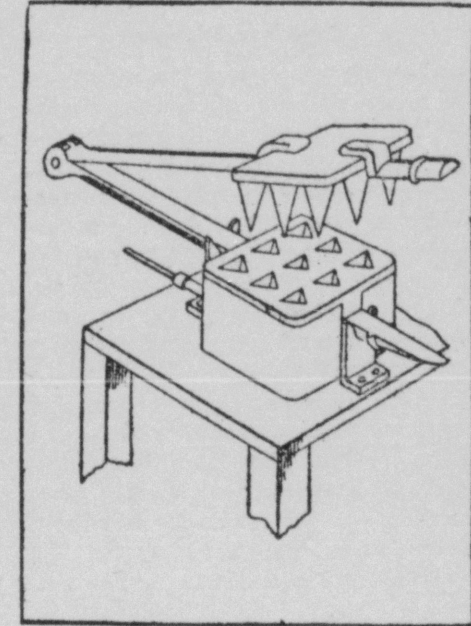

Always shrink a new braid before sewing to a skirt, otherwise the bottom of the skirt will become puckered the first time of wearing in a shower of rain.

In making salads do not chop your meats and celery in a chopping bowl. Cut into the desired size pieces.

MACHINE FOR BAKING CONES

Uses Gas as Fuel and Bakes Nine Ice Cream Holders at One Time.

Dealers in ice cream cones filled need not buy the cones from other people if they get one of the machines invented by a Chicago man. All they will have to do will be to hitch the apparatus up to the gas fixture and make the little receptacles themselves, having first, of course, learned how to mix the batter. This device consists of a baking iron with two flat-plate portions on arms hinged at their other ends and separated by the action of a spring. On the lower plate are pyramidal cups and on the upper plate are pyramidal projections not quite large enough to fill the cups. The whole baking iron rests on a base, with a gas burner on the bottom. The apparatus, which is light and easy to move about, is attached to a gas fixture and the burner lighted. A little batter is placed in each of the nine cups and the upper plate of the iron is closed down and locked. This leaves the space between the pyramidal projections and the cup filled with batter, and when this is baked to a crisp the plate is opened and the finished cones removed.

Light and Easy to Move.

"Garden Saus" Sandwiches.

Pimento, radish and cinnamon sandwiches are among the novelties of the present social season. Some of the girls in Barnard college recommend pimento for a change. They cut the bright red slices in small dice and then chop a few juicy olives, mix a little thin mayonnaise sauce over all and serve on slices of cold toast. A Persian studying in Columbia occasionally invites his friends to partake of a golden beverage he calls tea. He gives them a sandwich made of thin slices of fresh bread between which are cinnamon sticks that have been steeped in warm water until they are soft. Over them is a spiced and tart fluid which some of the irreverent term pickled honey. Radishes are the vegetable that contain more iron than others, so health faddists who wish to tone up the guest as well as feed him are chopping up radishes and adding a little French dressing and serving that between rye bread.

To Use Left-Over Cereals.

Left-over cereals may be useful in either of two ways. Mixed with some chopped meat and seasoned well it is always tasty in croquettes. An excellent dessert may be made of the cooked cereal, sweetened, seasoned with spice and then mixed with chopped raisins. Then it should be molded into cones and browned in the oven. Serve with sirup or thick cream.

Combination of Colors.

One of the most charming color schemes of today is that in which brown and cream and gold are blended artistically. Sometimes just a hint of color creeps in in the oriental embroideries, giving the last perfecting touch.

Cream Rice.

Cook rice in rapidly boiling salted water until tender. Take as much as required for dessert and mix with a cupful of whipped and sweetened cream. Flavor with vanilla and set away in a cold place. This is simple, but it is always satisfactory.

Practical Fashions

INFANTS' CLOAK.

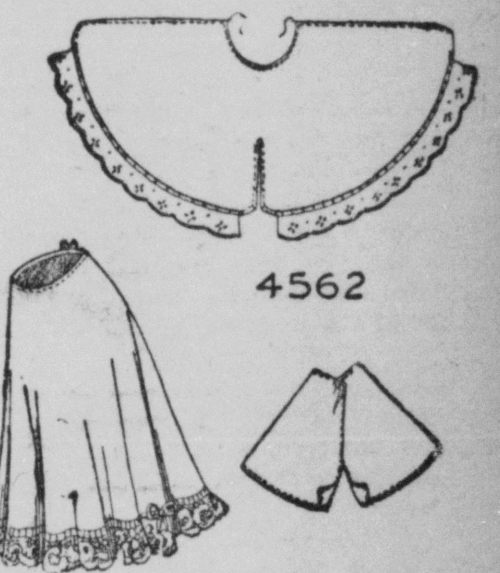

The baby's clothes have no season and one needs a cloak as much in summer as in winter, so that the same model may be kept on hand for different times. The illustration shows a simple sacque cloak, the sleeves being plain and the upper part embellished by a cape finished with a ruffle. Of course this cape can be omitted or made detachable if preferred. These cloaks are made of soft merino, cashmere and of many other woolen fabrics. They may be interlined if it is thought necessary.

LADIES' ONE-PIECE DRAWERS.

The more simple the garment the more likely is one to undertake the making of it, and no drawers pattern can be found easier of construction than the ones illustrated. These drawers are cut as shown in the small diagram. The center of the front is laid on a fold of the goods and the material is slashed up a short distance and the edges faced. The curved side is trimmed with edging and a little tab at each end is left plain. Here a button and buttonholes are placed and the leg is held in place by these only. The long edge is the back of the garment.

The pattern (4562) is cut in sizes 22 to 32 inches waist measure. Medium size requires 2 yards of 36-inch material, 4 1/4 yards of edging, 2 3/4 yards of beading and 3 3/4 yards of ribbon.

Passing of a Lumber Town. The other night at 12 o'clock the Pine Creek hotel, in the village of Cammal, closed its doors for all time. But one other hotel remains in Cammal. Four years ago there were four hotels there and all of them doing a flourishing business.

But the forest and the woodsmen are gone, more than two-thirds of the former population of Cammal has left, and the rows of empty houses, built in its palmy days, speak eloquently of the spirit of decadence that marks the history of the one time "metropolis of the Pine Creek region," with its population of nearly 2,000, its ponderous sawmill, big wooden pipe works, its two log railroads and its trade with the lumber camps in the Black Forest, where several hundred more men were engaged cutting timber.—Williamsport Correspondence Philadelphia Record.

His Afterthought.

In an idle moment Edwin Markham, the poet, was amusing himself by trying to do a bit of verse in the Martin Dooley dialect:

"Bowed be th' weight iv clinch'ries he leans

Upon 'is hoe an' gazes on the ground—"

Then he stopped.

"By jove!" he exclaimed, his eye flashing with a sudden inspiration: "I'll turn that into a serious poem! It'll make a hit!"

It did.

SCROFULA

HEREDITARY BLOOD POISON

Scrofula is a disease manifested usually by a swelling and ulceration of the glands, especially about the neck. It is almost entirely hereditary in its origin, being the dregs or remains of some specific blood poison. Where the blood is greatly weakened with the scrofulous poison, the disease attacks other portions of the system besides the glands, and then we see its effects in weak eyes, poorly developed bodies, running sores and ulcers, skin diseases, especially on the scalp, catarrhal troubles, etc. Scrofula usually makes its appearance in childhood, though manhood or womanhood may be reached before the poison progresses to the stage of outward manifestation. S. S. S. is the one real cure for Scrofula. It is a blood purifier without an equal, and it cures this destructive blood poison by removing every trace of the infection from the circulation. S. S. S., in addition to cleansing and purifying the blood, assists the stomach and digestive members in the creation of new blood corpuscles and other nourishing matter for the circulation. S. S. S. increases the resistive powers of the system and by strengthening and building up the vitality, allows nature to make a perfect and lasting cure. MUCH REMAINS YET TO BE DONE

The Legislative Program Hangs In the Balance.

TIME IS GROWING PRECIOUS

With but Two Weeks Remaining For Action Legislative Leaders Are Beginning to Realize That if Program Is Carried Out Much Remains to Be Done—House Complains of Senate Inaction.

Indianapolis, Feb. 20.—As the time for the adjournment of the general assembly draws near, members of the house and the senate have become alarmed at the prospect of failing to accomplish anything of consequence. There is a widespread insurrection among house majority members on the question of passing the Proctor regenerative bill. Forty-four members of the majority, it is understood, are opposed to making the Proctor restrictive bill a caucus measure and they will try to prevent any caucus action being taken on the bill. Less than twenty members of the house majority, it was stated, will vote for the $700 and $500 license clause in the bill. They contend that it is not a platform measure, and that the party is not bound to enact such a law.

Not Altogether Pleased.

Speaker Veneman and the members of the house are not altogether pleased with the failure of the senate to get through some of the house bills. Only three house bills have been passed by the senate. They are the measures appropriating $103,000 to pay for the state fair grounds pavilion bonds, appropriating $120,000 for the expense of the session and providing for payment of miners weekly. While there may not be an open boycott declared by the house against senate bills, the members resent the inaction of the senate, and may hold up senate bills in the future. The feeling was shown Saturday when a motion to fix the time of meeting again was under consideration.

"There's no use having a session until the senate gets something done," one member shouted. "It would take the senate the remainder of the session to pass the bills which have already been delivered by the house."

The violent opposition to the governor's plan of adopting a new constitution has placed the party in an embarrassing position, and it is predicted that the effect of the issue in the campaign of 1912 will not be changed materially whether or not the Democratic majorities in the two houses pass the constitution bill. While it is believed that the bill will pass both houses, it is expected that some ugly things may be said about it by the Democratic insurgents unless an agreement is reached to "grin and bear" the humiliation of acting contrary to personal judgment.

Praise For Speaker.

It has been hinted for several days that there will be no congressional reapportionment except where the changes in population make it absolutely necessary. The governor is known to be reasonably well satisfied with the present district boundaries and is not favorable to radical changes.

Speaker Veneman is being praised on all sides for his impartiality in rulings. He has been considerate especially to the Republican minority, and it is said that the Republicans could not have fared better under a speaker of their own choosing. The speaker is fairly well satisfied with the progress of the session thus far. The house organization has been very loose from the beginning, and in many instances this condition has prevented Mr. Veneman from driving through important measures with dispatch. The speaker asserted that he believed the closing days of the session would mark the passage of a sufficient number of bills to save the party from criticism for inactivity. He is not inclined to measure the progress of the session by the number of bills passed. He believes the party has done some of its most effective work in suppressing legislation.

The program of the present week is very uncertain. Generally the house will seek to advance bills to second and third reading, but the restrictive saloon measure may require two or three days for passage.

Teacher Will Appeal.

Anderson, Ind., Feb. 20.—Justice of the Peace Post announced his finding in the case of Vance Connors, a teacher, charged with having beaten Val Hoppes, twelve years old, a pupil in his school. Connors was fined $10 and costs. Connors served notice of an appeal to the circuit court.

Fell Seven Stories.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—W. T. J. Plummer, a real estate dealer, plunged from the seventh floor of the chamber of commerce building and was killed. Every bone in his body was crushed.

Dras Stannard Acquitted.

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 20.—Dras Stannard was acquitted by a jury on the charge of killing his father-in-law, Marion Bevins, near Bedford, last June.

EVER HAVE IT?

If You Have, the Statement of This Seymour Citizen Will Interest You.

Ever have a "low-down" pain in the back?

In the "small," right over the hips? That's the home of backache.

It's caused by sick kidneys.

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Seymour people endorse this.

Read a case of it:

E. L. Hinkle, 415 Laurel street, Seymour, Ind., says: "In 1900 I was on the verge of Bright's disease. I had sharp pains in my back that often radiated throughout my body and I was hardly able to walk. I rested poorly and was annoyed by the frequent passages of the kidney secretions. After doctoring for over a year without being helped, Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by a friend, who had used them with good results. I procured a supply and the contents of a few boxes cured me. As I have never had a recurrence of kidney trouble, Doan's Kidney Pills have my heartiest endorsement."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Thirty Years Together.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guesswork in this evidence of Thos. Ariss, Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and it's the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it forty years. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequalled for lagrippe, asthma, hay-fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by The Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

Accused of Stealing.

E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Me., boldly accuses Bucklen's Arnica Salve of stealing—the sting from burns or scalds—the pain from sores of all kinds—the distress from boils or piles. "It robs cuts, corns, bruises, sprains and injuries of their terror," he says, "as a healing remedy its equal don't exist." Only 25c at Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

If the bill passes a Washington theatre man will have cards printed for the children to have their parents sign. The cards will bear the following notice: "Dear Moving Picture Man: Let this kid into any show he wants to see, if he's got a nickel to pay for a seat. I'm not afraid of him being a bank burglar or a bigamist."

SHE SUFFERED FIVE YEARS

Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Erie, Pa.—"I suffered for five years from female troubles and at last was almost helpless. I went to three doctors and they did me no good, so my sister advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I had taken only two bottles I could see a big change, so I took six bottles and I am now strong and well again. I don't know how to express my thanks for the good it has done me and I hope all suffering women will give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It was worth its weight in gold."—Mrs. J. P. ENDLICH, R. F. D. No. 7, Erie, Pa.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

Attack Like Tigers.

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, salt-rheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Budahn, of Tracy, Calif., "I have ever found." They make rich, red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try them. 50c at Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

Ben Veach and Gail Hopewell went to Scottsburg this morning where they will attend a horse and mule sale.
